JUNE WEATHER ABOVE NORMAL

MORE RAINFALL AND HIGHER TEMPERATURES.

MERCURY UP TO 95

Lowest Was 53 On June 10, According to Monthly Report of J. R. Brink Official Weather Observer.

Warm weather with more than the average rainfall featured last month, according to a report of J. R. Brink, official weather observer.

The average temperature during the month was 72.9 degrees. The normal June temperature is 69.6 degrees, Mr. Brink said.

The temperature varied from 53 on June 10 to 95 on June 20.

The highest on record was in 1901 and 1918 when the mercury registered 101 degrees during June of those years. The lowest June temperature on record here was 41 in 1915.

The precipitation last month was above normal, according to Mr. Brink's report. The average precipitation for June during the years weather records have been kept here is 4.63 inches while last month it was 7.62 inches.

The greatest amount of precipitation on record was for 1917 when it measured 13.54 inches during the month of June. The lowest on record for June was in 1911 when it amounted to only 1.06 inches.

During the month just closed, there were fourteen clear days, fifteen cloudy and one partly cloudy, according to Mr. Brink's report.

City Is Suing for Collection Tax Bill

Divorce Suit Filed by Mrs. Hattie Opal Purdy—Alleges Indignities And Abandonment.

A suit for collection of tax bill against Lewis Arnett Denny, et al., was filed by the City of Maryville yesterday.

The city is suing for $69.30, interest at 8 per cent since February 25, 1925, for concrete sidewalk constructed and paid for by the city. The city is asking that the same be adjudged to be a special lien and charged upon real estate owned by defendants, the west half of southwest quarter of block 2, W. R. Saunder's addition to Maryville, requesting a special execution and lot be sold as provided by law for paying the debt and tax bill.

Charging indignities and abandonment, Mrs. Hattie Opal Purdy yesterday filed a divorce suit in the circuit court against William Henry Purdy, the later a non-resident.

Petition of plaintiff states they were married November 18, 1920, and a child, Wallace Henry was born to them. The plaintiff besides suing for divorce asks for care and custody of minor child.

Several Pies From One of These Plants

L. M. Strader brought to this office this morning two pie plants, one weighing one and three-fourths pounds and the other one pound and one ounce. They measured in height about forty-five inches and have a big leaf, resembling an umbrella in some ways. Mr. Strader says he set out these plants this spring. He left these plants on display at this office.

BIG MARKET CENTER IS AIM

HUBBELL EXPLAINS CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING.

TELLS OF THE LAWS

Says Farmers Can Sell "Just as the Other Fellow Does"—Denounces Price Controlling Centers.

Predicting that the farmers will learn how to sell their product just as "the other fellow does" from now on, George Hubbell, a Trenton attorney, said "don't fool yourself that the farmers won't stand together," in an address at the courthouse last night to a group of farmers and business men in which he explained the legal phases of co-operative marketing laws.

Mr. Hubbell spoke here under the auspices of the Missouri Farmers' Association. He was accompanied here by M. M. Reed and W. J. Solter, field men for the M. F. A., and Rolla G. Williams, M. F. A. publicity agent. Mr. Hubbell's talk was preceded by a short talk by Mr. Reed, who briefly told of the Missouri Farmers' Association, and told his hearers that the biggest problem confronting agriculture today is the marketing of the farmers' grains and produce, which, when successfully handled through co-operative marketing, will solve the farm problem.

It was Mr. Hubbell's object to point out that co-operative marketing laws have been passed by Congress, upheld by the highest court of the country and are now effective in thirty-nine states of the Union. He said that the M. F. A., was organized under the last co-operative marketing law passed in Missouri, is a corporation, with a board of thirty-two directors, two from each Congressional district, and that the M. F. A., has for its purpose a marketing agency to reach the great central markets direct, in order to cut down the profit from the farmer to the market centers, and that it is not its purpose to operate small stores throughout the country to compete with local business men.

The speaker emphasized that the margin of profit of what the farmer gets for his produce and what he pays for it when it comes back to him, is too great, and this is the reason for the agricultural depression at the present time.

The year 1921 was the first time a corporation law relating to co-operative marketing was ever known and that from this beginning, co-operative marketing, which is just a recent move, will expand until the farmers will not come to the markets and say "What'll you give for my stuff," and then when they come to buy ask, "What'll you take?" but demand a fair price for what they have to offer on the great markets of the world.

All other business are organized under corporation laws and now finally the farmers have laws on the statute books in most of the states and passed by Congress, authorizing them to operate. It is just a matter of education and explaining to the people that they have these laws, and Mr. Hubbell informed the farmers that they must become informed of such laws and take advantage of them.

He mentioned the great success of such co-operative marketing associations as the California Fruit Growers, the tobacco associations and cotton associations that now operate under corporation laws, saying that the time has come when the wheat and corn producers must do the same in order to get a fair deal, and not be dictated to by the great boards of trade that deal in futures, controlling the prices in the greatest gambling device ever operated.

The non-stock, non-profit act of 1923 of Missouri was referred to by Mr. Hubbell, saying that under this law the big and little farmer can combine and be held responsible alike, only to the amount of their investment, namely, $10, the initial and only cost.

The time has arrived when the townsfolk will have to help the farmer, the speaker advised, now that laws are passed under which he, the farmer, can organize and market his produce. He said that the co-operative marketing law of 1921, was when Agriculture passed its Declaration of Independence, now having laws under which it can go to the markets and sell their grain and produce. It will be a big task to organize the farmers of this state, but it can be done, Mr. Hubbell predicted.

College Students in Annual Picnic Day

Recreation Day at the State Teachers College began at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon and will continue until after a picnic supper is served this evening. The students met at the west entrance to the College building and marched in double file to the College Park where the frolic is being held.

All students are organized in county groups and each group is entertaining the others with short stunts or programs. Games of several kinds are being played and each group will have a picnic supper after the games and programs are concluded. Members of the faculty of the College are also taking part in the play. The Maryville Chamber of Commerce is providing the picnickers with free lemonade.

GREATNESS IS NOT CONFLICT

NATION'S SUCCESS DETERMINED BY ITS CITIZENS.

ITS GREAT MEN FIRST

Senator M. E. Ford Links Past To Present In Address To College Students This Morning.

"As we approach the anniversary of our national freedom a pride of ancestry begins to stir within us. And surely if any nation has a right to be proud of its ancestry it is we of America but we should also ask ourselves if our ancestors would be proud of us."

This was the way Senator M. E. Ford linked the past to the present in a speech to students of the State Teachers College this morning in observance of the coming anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, July 4.

Senator Ford's speech was devoted chiefly to a development of the thought that a nation's greatness is attested rather by the number of great men and women produced than by success in warfare.

Along this line of thought he said: "It is not strength or wealth that makes a great people. The greatest nation is the one that produces the most great men and women. No nation is great for wars waged or battles fought although war may give birth to a nation, aid in preserving it, or destroy it.

"The Revolutionary War gave birth to a new nation but nothing more. All of the old problems yet remained to be solved after the war was over. Soldiers add to the glory of a nation but not to its greatness, and Rome is known as great today, not because of her soldiers, but for her lawyers. Roman law is today the foundation of all systems of jurisprudence."

Senator Ford spoke in glowing terms of the period of the Revolution and the great men of that time. He began with a query as to why America is truly great and answered with the following significant remarks: "The period of the Revolution and the Forty years following it furnished the world with more great statesmen than I believe, can be found in the world today.

"Madison, Jefferson, Marshall and Hamilton knew more about national government and jurisprudence than our whole generation. They had no broadcasting stations yet their words are heard in the world yet today. Jefferson had no cable reaching across the Atlantic but that famous message to the king of England reached its destination just the same in due course of time, and rulers in European countries are still hearing that message today."

In the closing part of his address the Senator said: "We may be worthy of such great ancestors. I do not know for no man can be competent judge in his own case. But we can, at any rate, study the great lessons they taught and honor them the more by following the splendid examples they set for us. We should honor them as being great in war, but more because they were greater in peace than in war."

The audience sang the first and last stanzas of "America" before the address.

A NEW ROAD BOSS NAMED

MARTIN DECHMAN OF SAVANNAH APPOINTED SAYS MILLER.

J. E. JAMES RESIGNS

His Work Has Been Appreciated—New Man to Have Charge Nodaway And Andrew Counties.

Martin Dechman of Savannah has been appointed superintendent of maintenance on the state highways in Nodaway and Andrew counties, according to H. M. Miller of St. Joseph, who is in charge of the maintenance work of the St. Joseph district. Mr. Dechman intends to move to Maryville about August 1, if he can find a place as there is more mileage to be taken care of in this county than Andrew County.

J. E. James of Maryville, who has been in charge of maintaining the state roads in this county, has resigned his position. Mr. Miller in speaking of the resignation of Mr. James said:

"We appreciate the work and effort of Mr. James. He has always taken an interest in the work and he has given the county the best service possible."

Mr. Dechman accompanied Mr. Miller to Maryville today. He has been in charge of the maintenance of the state roads in Andrew County.

Other counties in this division, Gentry and Worth, Daviess and Caldwell, have only one superintendent of maintenance for the two counties. When the state highways are completed, there will be a maintenance superintendent for the concrete roads and a similar one for the gravel roads. At that time, county lines will not be considered, these superintendents to have charge of designated routes.

The previous high mark for the present year was made on June 20 when the mercury stood at 95 degrees.

Secretary Kellogg had hoped that something definite could be accomplished at the preliminary meeting, and with this in view had gone so far as to tell the Italian ambassador that the United States expected payments to begin almost immediately, and that this government was opposed to granting an extended moratorium on initial payments.

DEATH TOLL NOT SO LARGE

CALIFORNIA QUAKE CAUSES A HUGE PROPERTY LOSS.

35 MILLION DAMAGE?

Fire Hazard Decreased—Santa Barbara Widely Known as One of Most Beautiful Cities in World.

That was the summary of the situation today following forty-eight hours after the terrific earth shock which rocked this ancient city.

This morning, for the first time, it was definitely believed the toll of the dead would not exceed a score. Thirteen persons known dead, five additional missing and believed killed, and forty-one injured made up the casualty list early today.

The property damage was regarded by many investigators as possibly greater than previously estimated. It may reach the fearful figure of thirty-five million, although city officials of Santa Barbara declared it might come under the ten-million-dollar mark.

Despite careful patrolling, marauders were said to have broken through the police lines around the city and to have started looting. The thugs, according to the police, came here from Los Angeles, San Francisco and other coast cities.

While wholesale looting has not been reported, should the situation become worse in this respect, it was expected actual martial law would be declared. A semi-martial law, city and military authorities co-operating, has been in effect since a few hours after the disaster, and a declaration of martial law in the fullest extent may follow today.

Santa Barbara today was a transformed city. Refreshed after their first sleep in many hours, thousands of the city's residents plunged into the huge task of reconstruction. Business houses were opened in the districted areas where the big penalty was paid by buildings.

The city's banks opened in a combined temporary institution.

Huge gangs of men are clearing the cracked streets of debris and others are working in the ruins in a new search for the dead.

Tokio, July 1.—The Pacific Civilization Society called off a "humiliation day" meeting scheduled for tonight out of sympathy for Santa Barbara, earthquake city of the United States. The organization will send a message of sympathy to Santa Barbara, it was announced.

The "humiliation day" meeting was planned to stir up interest in creating such a day on the anniversary of the passage of the immigration exclusion law by the United States.

Santa Barbara, Calif., July 1.—Although the loss of private property has been large, the city of Santa Barbara itself has not suffered greatly financially, City Manager Nunn declared today.

The largest single expense that the city will have to face because of the tremors is the reconstruction of the Sheffield dam, which will cost approximately $20,000.

One hundred and fifty workmen with several steam shovels and a fleet of tractors and trucks started work on the reconstruction of the dam early today.

Excluding the cost of the dam, the city has not suffered much loss through damage of sewers, water mains, streets and bridges, Nun said.

Fire hazard was decreased today by the arrival of four fire tugs from the Los Angeles fire department. In an effort to make the sidewalks along State street passable and safe for pedestrains, scores of firemen set to work on the damaged structures early this morning.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 1 (United Press)—The United Press camp in the heart of earthquake-torn Santa Barbara was a picturesque makeshift for a "news room."

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—The two recent deaths in its ranks—Senator Robert M. La Follette's and Senator Edwin F. Ladd's—coming so close together, have jolted the Progressive group in congress considerably.

Between now and the national legislature's next meeting some effective reorganizing must be done or the "bloc" will find itself materially weakened.

Senators La Follette, Ladd, Lynn J. Frazier and Smith W. Brookhart were the nucleus. Senator George W. Norris was of the group in everything except that he contrived to retain his Republican party standing—nominally.

Senators Henrik Shipstead and Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Laborites, were allies. Senators William E. Borah and James Couzens were Republican insurgents much of the time.

Senators Hiram W. Johnson, Arthur Capper and R. B. Howell were occasionally so—a little.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of course belonged to the "bloc" but didn't count as a vote to the good against the administration, inasmuch as, a Democrat, he was anti-administration anyway.

The same thing might be said of Shipstead and Magnus Johnson; yet the administration did gain at the "bloc's" expense by a "regular" Republican's defeat of Johnson at the last election.

Of the seven original dependables—La Follette, Ladd, Frazier, Brookhart, Norris, Shipstead and Magnus Johnson—three, then, are gone, La Follette and Ladd by death, Johnson by defeat.

As a partial offset against the new senator, Schall's victory over Magnus Johnson, the independents are able to count the retirement of the very regular senator, Thomas Sterling, in favor of W. H. McMaster—not an "ultra"-Progressive but as much so, say, as Borah and Couzens.

There remain La Follette's and Ladd's seats to be filled.

La Follette's seems certain to be filled by a man he himself would have chosen—his son, Bob, Jr., from all indications. The Progressives are hopeful as to Ladd's, too.

So, however, are the "regular" Republicans. Ladd's state was "pro" the present national administration at the last election, which is what the "regulars" base their faith on. It was quite progressively so, however, which is what encourages the independents.

All in all, it looks as if Ladd's successor, if not an out-and-out insurgent, like Ladd himself, at least will fall, like McMaster, in the Borah and Couzens class.

It isn't altogether a question, however, of how the senate lines up next December. There's the future also to be looked into—the latter half of President Coolidge's present term.

The administration is quite likely to lose some senate seats to t he Democrats next year.

Republican members of the upper house come up for re-election in Arizona, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, and Oklahoma. These states choose Democrats oftener than they do Republicans.

Other states in which successors must be chosen to Republican solons are Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Nevada, New York, Utah and Washington. These are at least doubtful.

It will be odd if out of this dozen of commonwealths, the Democrats don't score some gains and the Republicans suffer a few losses.

So the administration can't afford to have much insurgency in its own ranks. If it has, the same situation will prevail which has prevailed since the middle of President Harding's administration—the insurgents will hold the balance of power, and use it against the president.

The Progressive "bloc" is a bit rattled at the moment, yes, but to assume that it's done for, as the "regulars" have been doing since La Follette, and still more since Ladd died, is premature until time's given to see how well the independents rally.

St. Louis, Mo., July 1 (United Press)—Judge Rosecran of traffic court is rapidly becoming noted for his ability to out trick the smart-thinking speeders.

John H. Bauman was in court charged with driving his truck 30 miles an hour. He denied the charge claiming his truck wouldn't go that fast.

"I'll make you a proposition," the judge said. "I'll send a man out to drive your truck and if he can't make it do thirty miles an hour I'll dismiss you, but if it does make thirty miles an hour I'll fine you $50"

Star Tennis Players Entering Tournament

Four of "Big Ten" Have Already Signde Up For St. Louis Event Which Starts Next Week.

St. Louis, Mo., July 1 (United Press)—Four of the "first ten" tennis players in the United States already have entered the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament which will be played off at the Triple A Club here July 11 to 18.

Heading the list of stars who will be entered is William T. Tilden, II, the national champion. Tilden, after several weeks of hesitancy, announced he would forsake "reporting" during the National Tourney and enter as a player. He won the singles championship here last year.

The three other "First ten" players already entered include:

Howard O. Kinsey, California.
Brian I. C. Norton, St. Louis.
George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago.

Other first ten players are expected to enter before the entries close, and besides these the sectional stars from all over the country will be entered. Last year sectional stars were entered from 26 cities and the entry list of this year is expected to be larger.

Three "first ten" doubles teams also are entered, including the national clay court and grass court champions—Howard and Robert Kinsey of California.

Other teams are:
Tilden and "Sandy" Wiener.
Brian I. C. Norton and Wray Brown, St. Louis.

Great preparations are being made for the tournament, with plans now underway for a stand to seat 4,000 spectators. There will be approximately 400 seats around the "championship" courts where the final matches will be played. Already there has been a great demand for the choice seats.

This year's tournament will be better than last year the championship committee announced. The committee making arrangements includes C. Drummond Jones, president of the Missouri Valley Tennis Association; Roland M. Hoerr and Dan W. Jones, St. Louis and Howard O. Kinsey, San Francisco.

College Boy Waits Too Long to Apply for State License

Because money was not so plentiful a College boy, formerly of McKendrie, Ill., was waiting to apply for a state automobile license so he could get the half rate.

However, he waited too long, as he was hailed before Justice Warren L. Johnson this afternoon under the wing of Sheriff L. B. Campbell, charged with operating a motor vehicle without a state license and was assessed a fine of $5.

Sheriff Campbell said that it "kinda went against his grain to do his duty as the young man, Theodore Search, appeared as a mighty fine fellow," but he was breaking the state law.

To Continue Drive for Cemetery Road

Funds Are Still Needed To Assure Completion of Standard Gravel Project—420 Persons Have Given.

The campaign for funds to construct gravel roads to the cemeteries will be continued until 40 per cent more of the present amount has been pledged, it was decided at a meeting of the committee last night.

The road will be built according to state specifications, eighteen feet wide with gravel nine inches thick.

Four hundred and twenty people have subscribed to date. Providing the same average pledge is maintained 275 more pledges are needed, and the committee will either have to secure this number, or call upon some who have already donated, to increase their pledges, as a number have voluntarily agreed to do already. Unless the full amount required is raised it will be impossible to build this much needed road.

The committee has decided upon the completion of the drive to publish the complete list of doners, together with the amount of their pledges, as well as the complete cost of the road, in order that everyone may know where every penny came from and went to.

Weather Varied Much During Past Week

Wheat Harvest Advances to Northern Border, With Rains Causing Some Delay, But Much Is Shocked.

There was considerable variation in the weather during the week ending Tuesday morning, June 30, in Missouri, though it was mainly fine crop growing weather. There was more rain, less sunshine and something less than the normal warmth over the northern two-thirds of the state, while conversely there was normal or above normal warmth and sunshine, and less rain, in the southwestern quarter and along the southern Ozark slope.

Showers fell on about four days. The seasonal total to date nearly equals the seasonal normal for the state as a whole; locally in the Ozarks more rain would be beneficial but generally there is plenty of moisture and temporarily too much in central and northern sections. Day temperatures were in the nineties on two days, 100 at Poplar Bluff on the 28th being the highest. Generally though they ranged in the eighties.

Wheat harvest has advanced to the northern border. Rains caused some delay, but about three-fourths of the entire crop is in shock. Threshing has begun in the southwestern and southeastern counties; the quality is good and yields about average; some fields in St. Clair County are running 20 bushels to the acre. Oats have improved and cutting has begun.

Except a few wet grassy fields, a few creek washouts, and some little scattered hail damage, conditions during the week were nearly ideal for corn. The crop now averages knee-high, while a considerable percentage has been laid by in fine shape. In the southeastern counties the crop is entering the tasseling stage.

Pastures are generally fine; and spite of the showers much fine hay was saved. The apple crop is about 50 per cent of normal; all truck and the minor crops are doing well.

The southeastern cotton crop is in fine condition and making excellent progress; squares are seen generally and some fields are coming into bloom about ten days earlier than normal.

Hawes Will Run For U. S. Senate

Groundwork Laid for Campaign of Congressman From Eleventh District.

St. Louis, July 1.—Harry B. Hawes of S. Louis, who has represented the eleventh Missouri district in congress since March 4, 1921, has definitely decided to become a candidate for U. S. senator next year, it became known here last night. While Hawes made no formal announcement, it is understood he frankly told Democratic leaders, who met here Monday, that he expects to enter the race.

The ground work of his campaign is said to be already laid. During his incumbency in congress he has been building, it is learned, an organization which extends in to every county in Missouri.

Since his incumbency Hawes has distributed among Democrats on a vast mailing list more than 1,500,000 copies of speeches which he had delivered, covering a variety of subjects.

His formal announcement will not be forthcoming for several months, it is believed, because the nomination for senator will not be made until the August primary, 1926.

Two other Democrats regarded as prospective candidates are former Governor Frederick D. Gardner, and Charles M. Hay, both of St. Louis. Neither has yet gone further than to make political soundings.

Office Management Course Worth While

Office Management course 97, which takes up work of the stenographer in the modern business office, taught by Miss Minnie James, is proving a valuable course to those attending College who intend to work as stenographers.

Various reports have been made in the class on reference books for office use, general office courtesy, use of the telephone, the proper use and care of a typewriter, and other phases of business work.

The class, on one occasion, visited the office of Mr. Rickenbrode, the registrar at the College, where they were given a demonstration of the use and operation of the adding machine.

This is the old home of Eugene Field, the Missouri poet whose verses, such as "Little Boy Blue," are known to every school child in the land. The building, which is located at 634 South Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri, in one of the oldest sections of the city, is about to be wrecked and a warehouse erected on the site. A hurried effort is being made by St. Louis friends of the poet to buy the property and preserve it for future generations. Field, who was born in St. Louis in 1850 and died in 1895, began his career as a reporter on the St. Louis Journal. Later he worked in other cities, such as St. Joseph, Kansas City, Denver and Chicago. He always remained a newspaper man; the last few years of his life having been spent in creating a daily column for a Chicago paper. The house shown here is a part of a long brick structure containing six apartment houses. It likely will be necessary to buy the entire structure in order to preserve the Field home. Each floor is now occupied by renters.

SENATE RULES ARE DEFENDED

BEVERIDGE ATTACKS DAWES ATTEMPT.

CHECKS HASTY ACTION

Indiana Senator Outlines His Views In Address to National Educational Association In Convention

Indianapolis, July 1.—Proposed rules to prevent unlimited debate in the senate were described last night by former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, as "an assult upon the theory and nature of American institutions."

Addressing the National Educational Association convention here, Mr. Beveridge asserted that the modification of rules, as urged by Vice-President Dawes, was a blow, "though unintentional, of course," at the system "of those checks and balances which assure to the people safety from impulsive and immature legislation."

Several alterations "of our form and methods of government," are proposed at present he said, and "three of these schemes are radical changes in American fundamentals."

Not a New Proposal, He Says.

"Not one of them is new," he added, "and each of them is frankly destructive of an institution which is peculiarly American, and each of them proposes to adopt a European institution in its place . . .

"John W. Davis, a liberal conservative, says we should alter our Constitution so that a temporary majority of the senate can ratify a treaty; the late Senator La Follette, an advanced radical said we should alter our Constitution so a temporary majority of congress could reverse constitutional decisions of the supreme court, and Vice-President Dawes, an acknowledged reactionary, says we should alter a basic rule of the senate."

Of these three proposals, Mr. Beveridge declared, the "most radical" is that of cloture for the senate, and "in practical results, if adopted, it would be worse than the other two combined."

"The American senate," he asserted, "was established to prevent hasty action. Its purpose was to check unworthy or questionable projects. It was designed to be the refuge of the minority and was meant to be a deliberative body—not merely a voting machine to register the fancies of a temporary majority."

Only Danger In Excess Laws.

Reviewing arguments in behalf of the cloture proposal, he declared, "if any purely domestic danger threatens the American republic, that danger is excess legislation," and urged those who endorsed the proposal to point out "a single great wrong that has been perpetrated upon the American people" because of unlimited senate debate, and to name "a single benefit which has been denied the American people" because of it.

"Throughout our history," he continued, "no fillibuster ever succeeded which, in the end, the people disapproved; and no filibuster ever failed which, in the end, the people did approve.

"Public opinion is the most powerful force on earth; no sane man wants to oppose it, and no sane man ever did resist the ultimate majority and final judgment of a nation."

Latest Mae Murray Production Dazzles

Presenting the popular Mae Murray in the interesting roles of two sisters, "Fashion Row," a Metro picture, plays tonight and Thursday at the Empire Theater. As a Broadway actress who marries into an old aristocratic family, Miss Murray has the opportunity to wear endless stunning gowns and delight Murray fans with the Murray dances, while the role of a plain little Russian peasant girl who comes to America to find her sister is of striking contrast. There is also a Russian out of the actress's past, who seeks revenge for a scarred face and soul she left him, and exciting events transpire that will thrill every spectator.

Earle Foxe, Freeman Wood, Elmo Lincoln and Mathilde Brundage are importantly cast, and the production was directed by Robert Z. Leonard, director general of Tiffany productions, of which M. A. Hoffman is general manager. "Fashion Row" was written by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin and photographed by Oliver T. Marsh. Horace Jackson was art director.

300 New Books at the College Library

About three hundred new volumes are being added to the library at the State Teachers College. C. E. Wells, the librarian, reports that they are of a general nature, being selected to strengthen the reference material for each department of the College. This addition makes about five hundred new books which have been added this summer.

Union, June 29.—The City Council here has passed an ordinance providing for boulevard stops at several of the main streets in the heart of the town.

Good Merchants First Necessity in Building Up Worth-While Community

The following is the twenty-fifth installment of the article on "Community Advertising," written for the Democrat-Forum by D. A. Cantwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

The way to build a good community is first to build good merchants, that is, develop the town as a buying center, get the merchants together to meet mail order competition. Second, educate the merchants to use the same advertising weapons that the mail order houses use, namely, direct mail advertising. Direct mail can be used cooperatively as a business builder for the community. In one county in a Western state where less than 10 years ago, the mail order houses used to get $2,000,000.00 out of the residents, they now get less than 10 per cent of that amount.

Mailing lists undoubtedly represent the most important single element in direct mail advertising, being used in many ways for many things. If the follow-up is not correct, the effect of all that has gone before is wasted. There are profitable limits to any medium that is employed in community advertising.

Advertising in general, still suffers through the over-zealous representations of various mediums. Communities should ask themselves: "What have we to advertise? To whom should the material go? How should we advertise?"

Observations covering a period of 10 years, are convincing that community selling literature, most of which has been direct mail, is defective in many ways. Outstanding complaints are: poor typography, poor printing, and poor paper. Not enough envelope inserts are used. Illustrations are often lacking.

Every advertiser knows that sporadic advertising is of negative value and that continuity and definiteness of purpose are essential to the success of an advertising campaign.

The value of radio as an advertising medium for the community, depends almost entirely upon the program and the vision of the promoters.

THE KEY TO SUCCESS

Success depends primarily on a healthy liver and stomach. You can not think straight if these organs are not working properly. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Less Poultry Is Shipped to England

Poultry dealers in the United States depend on England to take a large share of the production of medium weight frying chickens. This year, however, exports have been very light, due to increased production in Czechoslovakia, Austria, and Russia Imports to England from this group of countries for five months show a pronounced increase over all the same period for the past two years. While American poultry will command some premium on the London market, yet as Russian Chickens are selling around 20 to 24 cents, the volume for lower priced goods is so great as to limit trading in American goods. If there is no improvement in the foreign poultry situation it means that considerable portion of the American production of medium weight chickens will have to be sold here, and as they are neither broilers nor roasters, they sell at very moderate prices.

There has been a plentiful supply of live fowl and an increasing quantity of chickens on the market during the week—prices in New York ranging 3 cents lower on fowl and half lower on in Chicago. While there is some little extra demand expected this week for Fourth of July trade, the business is still burdened with large stocks from last year's pack, which must be disposed of before there can be any material improvement.

Fresh eggs are in lighter supply, and markets have firmed up considerably both at Chicago and New York, the average gain being nearly 1½ cents a dozen. Quality is still sought by buyers who are particular and producers realize higher net values if they will take good care of their stocks, gathering daily, keeping in a cool place and marketing at least three times weekly.

Chicago market on 90 score butter is quoted at 41 cents, a decline of 1 3-4 cents from prices prevailing a week ago. New York market has been continually under Chicago—92 score Extras are today quoted at 41 cents as compared with 42 cents the same day last week. Prices were considerably higher during the entire month of June than a year ago, but promise of continued good production, due to plentiful rainfall throughout producing sections caused some slackness in the buying, and as many storage buyers have a pretty good proportion of their orders filled there was some let up in the demand and prices quickly re-enacted to a lower basis. On basis of present values, butter will continue fairly steady for at least the next week or so.

Pictures of Santa Barbara Earthquake

This airplane photo, rushed to the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by NEA Service over more than 2,000 miles of wire, shows in graphic manner the havoc wrought by the recent earthquake at Santa Barbara, California. In the foreground can be seen the ruins of the California Hotel. The fallen walls expose interiors of the bedrooms.

This is what the recent earthquake did to the famous Arlington Hotel at Santa Barbara, California. One section of the building was shaken to pieces. The giant tremor caused millions in property damage and, according to estimate, killed more than 65 people. This photo was taken on the scene of the disaster by NEA Service and rushed to the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by airplane and over more than 2,000 miles of leased wire.

Motor Cars on C. B. & Q. Branch Lines

Will Be Installed on Ten Branches—May Mean Maryville Branch, It Is Rumored.

Chicago, July 1—Gasoline motor cars will supplant steam trains on ten branch lines of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, it was learned yesterday.

The cars will be of a new design with the engine under the trucks, and will be fifty-five feet long, with a passenger capacity of forty persons. There also will be baggage and mail compartments.

The plan is in line with recent expressions at meetings of railroad executives, indicating the necessity of meeting motor competition of the highways by use of less expensive motive power on the short runs.

W. E. Goforth, local agent of the Burlington, said today he had heard rumors of motor cars being installed on this branch of the Burlington but had not received any definite information.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, July 1.—Grain futures underwent wild price changes in today's trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices advanced sharply up to noon, hesitated for awhile, then sank rapidly to new lows on the present movement.

Entire reversals in wheat's trend came shortly after mid-day, and at a point sharply above the previous close. The market was boosted on buying by influentials based on expectation of bullish expert figures and apprehension over rust spread in the Northwest.

Release of these private figures showing conditions about as expected, came news from the spring belt that was decidedly bearish. As a result huge amounts of grain were dumped into the pit far in excess of bids. The late downturn was steady and to a few minutes before the close. At that time short covering regained a fraction.

Corn followed wheat and registered sharply recessions. Deliveries were large indicating plenty of supplies available.

Crop news was favorable.

Weaker provisions reflected lower grains.

Packing house interests liquidated despite higher hogs.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT KANSAS CITY

By Kansas City Livestock Exchange.

Though cattle receipts in the first two days this week were liberal and the largest thus far for the summer season, medium to fair classes have been the only kinds that sold lower. Others were steady and in some cases the commonest and strictly prime kinds were higher. One lot of prime 1081 pound finished shorthorn yearlings sold up to $13.50, the highest price this year and within 50 cents of the extreme high point paid for Christmas beeves last year. For some time past strictly prime cattle have been scarce in Kansas City, and doubtless will continue so throughout the summer months.

The mid-summer runs of grass fat cattle are starting. From now on the big per cent of the total arrivals will come from grass, and the cattle that show gain on grass, or have been winter fed and summer grazed will comprise the high end of the choice beeves available. The runs of grass cattle is getting under way two weeks earlier than usual. In some cases this movement has been made to lighten grass that would be overgrazed should dry weather come. Because of the early start the runs can be well distributed over a long marketing period and should tend to keep the trade in a healthy condition. With July 4 coming on Saturday, the holiday will not interrupt marketing movements or interfere with the trade.

While prime, 1,081 pound yearling steers made $13.50 and were the outstanding feature in the days trade, other good to choice yearlings made $10.50 to $12.25 and were quoted stronger. Choice medium to strong weight steers sold at $11 to $12, and heavy weight steers up to $11.75. The best double summered wintered Kansas steers sold at $10 to $11, the latter price being paid for 1400 pound weights. The better classes of Texas fed steers brought $10 to $10.75, and they together with the above mentioned sales were quoted strong. Short fed and grass fat steers were steady at Monday's 15 to 25 cent decline. Most of the one season grazed steers sold at $5.50 to $8.50 and short fed steers at $8.50 to $10.25. Prime finish is bringing a premium.

Butcher classes made up mostly of grass fat cows, and heifers were steady and in fairly active demand. Grass heifers sold largely at $6 to $7.75 and grass fat cows $4.25 to $5.50, top $7.25. Choice to prime fed heifers were quoted at $10 to $11.25. Veal calves were steady at Monday's 50 cent to $1 decline, top holding at $9.50.

Trade in stockers and feeders showed an active turn at fully steady prices. Inquiry is increasing and indications are that an active demand will prevail in July. Most of the thin cattle offered recently have been medium grades that brought $5.75 to $7.

Hog prices eased off moderately today, compared with Monday's best time and closed in about the same position as late last week. The top price was $13.40 and bulk of sales $13.20 to $13.40. Included in the bulk were practically all weights, 170 pounds up. The 140 to 165-pound classes sold at $12.60 to $13.10, and packing sows $11.25 to $11.75. Stock hogs and pigs brought $12.50 to $13. Most of the old sows coming are only grass fat.

Lambs broke 25 cents Monday and today took a 50 to 75-cent plunge downward, making nearly a dollar break for the two days. Native lambs sold mostly at $14.75 to $15.25, and western lambs $15 to $15.50. Some Colorado ewes brought $7 and Louisiana wethers $7.25. Yearlings were lacking.

shipping platform near the telephone office, the men worked sitting on boxes with typewriters and instruments mounted on the platforms.

COOLIDGE ORDERS NAVY TO GIVE AID TO SANTA BARBARA.

Cut off from direct wire communication in the little town of Plymouth, Vt., except for press Association circuits established there President Coolidge communicated with Assistant Secretary of War Davis through the United Press late Monday.

"You and Secretary of Navy give all possible aid to Santa Barbara" the president's message read.

Acknowledgement of the message from Secretary Davis to the president was transmitted through the United Press Washington office to Plymouth within a few minutes.

During the night the place was lighted by automobile headlights. Reporters lighted their way through the ruins with lanterns and flashlights.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 1 (United Press)—"So dusty there; so hard to breathe."

"I am scrubbing the floors when they roll up at me" she explained from her bed at the Cottage Hospital. "Then the wall it fall all over me and I go down—down. So much dust I can hardly breathe!

"But I just wait and wait because I can hear the scratching as they dig for me and in time they take me out."

Dark eyed Macorria has a broken arm, a bruised and sprained back and internal injuries. Her life is in the balance but she has the will to live.

It is not around her cruel injuries that the memories of the night of horror remains; it is "that dust"—so hard to breathe."

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 1 (United Press)—Standing alone and practically undamaged in the midst of a sweep of quake-wrecked buildings is the Santa Barbara News plant.

This structure, of old Spanish design, was built two years ago by George Washington Smith, famous architect of old Spain and was designed to be quake-proof.

The Santa Barbara disaster proved a tribute to the builder. When a new Santa Barbara is erected on the site of the present ruins, it is probable that most of the structures will be modelled after the News plant.

Employees said the building stood like a giant through the first serious tremor and those which followed. Heavy linotype machines were shaken out of line, but the building, solid with iron and concrete withstood one of the most severe tests ever given to the architecture.

Los Angeles, July 1 (United Press)—Santa Barbara, ruined Monday by earthquake, was widely known as one of the most beautiful resort cities in the world.

Ideally situated, it enjoyed the benefits of both ocean and mountains and was the mecca for tourists from all parts of the world.

Many famous millionaires and professional artists, writers and actors have made Santa Barbara their winter home and erected magnificent residences there.

The California Hotel, completely demolished, was one of the finest resort havens in southern California. It had been operating only a few weeks when it was reduced to ruins.

Signs posted by the chamber of commerce at every entrance to the city read "Ocean washed, sun kissed, mountain- guarded, island girdled, beautiful Santa Barbara."

Rome, July 1.—Twelve more earthquakes, distributed over the entire world, will come during the month of July and some of them, at least, will exceed in violence the shock which just rocked Santa Barbara, according to Raphael Bendandi.

The probable dates of these disturbances, he said will be July 5, 7, 15, and 16. The shocks will rock central Asia, the western Pacific area and slighter disturbances in central America.

Bendandi forecast the California earthquake in a statement which he issued on June 26.
